Kelso. Sir Walter Scott spent a great deal of his boyhood at Kelso, and was very fond of the town and neighbourhood. The Abbey was founded in 1130 by David I., and, after many vicissitudes, was destroyed by the English in 1545. The bridge, built by Rennie, crosses the River Tweed between the railway station and the town.

D.C. It's about 10 miles colder here than London, but good to say it is fine. How do you like this Series. Will love to tell you.

Thank you v. much for p. post card, the tired feeling you complained of the other day, must have entirely worn off
or you would not have ascended such a tremendous height.
Glorious weather here
since with you. v. sps.
